

Truman Hits Ike 'Blunders'

Accuses the General Of Endangering U. S. By Making It Unaware Of Russian Threat

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN (P) President Truman accused Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today of having endangered the country as commanding general in Europe by grave "blunders" which left America unaware of Russia's threat to world peace.

He said Eisenhower's advice that he saw no reason why Russia and the United States would not remain "the closest possible friends" carried "great weight" and "did a great deal of harm."

If Eisenhower had given "Better advice in 1945," Truman continued, "we wouldn't have had so much trouble, in wakening up the country to the danger of Communist imperialism in 1946 and 1947 and 1948."

The President took a bit of the edge off the charge by stating that it was our prime hope after the war to live in peace with the Soviet Union. But he added that Eisenhower should admit his mistakes.

No Comment by Gen. Eisenhower headquarters in New York said there would be no comment on the President's remarks. But one of the general's aides, who asked not to be quoted by name, said:

"We'll answer all those charges in good time. The general isn't going to be put in the position of commenting every time Truman makes a charge. The President is not a candidate. But you can expect a reply will be made when we are ready and not as they want the reply made."

Truman chose a whistle stop speech at Havre, Mont., to launch the latest of increasingly bitter attacks on the Republican presidential nominee in reply to Eisenhower's own charges of blunders by the Truman administration in the field of foreign policy.

The President, speaking from the rear platform of his campaign train special voiced praise of Rep. Mike Mansfield, Democratic candidate for the Senate against Sen. Ecton (R-Mont.) and Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson for having known "that communism was dangerous and that we had to take measures to stop it."

Truman said Eisenhower didn't have such "wisdom and foresight." "After the war, while he was still commanding general of our forces in Europe," the President continued, "he said he saw no reason why Russia and the United States would not remain the closest possible friends."

President Quoted Ike

Truman quoted Eisenhower as having told a congressional committee in November of 1945:

"There is no one thing that guides the policy of Russia more today than to keep friendship with the United States."

Truman went on to say of his own former Army chief of staff:

"His foresight was not nearly as good as his hindsight. "Of course, we can all make mistakes, but the Republican candidate was the commanding general in Europe and was in close contact with the Russians. His advice carried great weight and it therefore did a great deal of harm."

It is true, the President continued, that "we were all trying immediately after the war to find a means for living with the Russians on a peaceful basis."

"I don't blame the Republican candidate for his part in that," Truman added, "but he ought to be honest enough to admit his blunders about the Russians."

"I get tired of all the Republican speeches and all their propaganda saying that the Republican party has been out in front against the danger of communism. It simply isn't so."

Mansfield Defied Washington

Truman said that Mansfield, as a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations, "stood right up to the Russian Vishinsky (foreign minister) and slugged it out with him and beat down a Russian attack on the foreign policy of the United States" in a debate that "won respect for Mike Mansfield throughout the world."

Petition Asks for Admission Of Negroes at Bothwell Hosp.

Pettis County Branch of National Assn. For Advancement of Colored People Submits Matter to Mayor and City Council

The Pettis County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People today presented a petition to Mayor Herb E. Studer and members of the City Council asking that facilities at the Bothwell Hospital be opened to the Negro citizens of the community.

The petition is dated September 30 and is signed by officers of the NAACP here: the Rev. B. C. Brock, president; Mrs. D. F. Richards, secretary; and F. D. Ferguson, chairman.

In full, the petition, which explains the position taken by the Negro group, is as follows:

"To The Honorable Mayor and the Members of the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, City Hall:

"Gentlemen:

"In connection with representation we have heretofore made to the Honorable Mayor with respect to the intolerable and deplorable health inadequacies of our Negro hospital and the failure of our city to meet the needs of all of its citizens and especially its Negro citizens with respect thereto, the Pettis County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has authorized and directed its principal officers to submit to you this petition.

"We respectfully request the following:

"1. That the Council by resolution or other appropriate action authorize and direct its hospital authorities or agency to immediately admit all Negro applicants for medical services to the facilities of the Bothwell Hospital, owned and operated by the City of Sedalia.

"2. We further respectfully submit that in the event the beds or operating facilities at Bothwell Hospital are presently inadequate for the additional services or use resulting from change of policy above requested that the City Council of Sedalia immediately within a reasonable time increase the facilities of the Bothwell Hospital so as to meet the demand here submitted for the health and welfare of all citizens of this city.

"We respectfully believe that we are legally and morally within our rights to submit the request here made and should like to urge the responsible officers of our city to comply herewith in the interest of public welfare and health.

"In witness whereof, we the authorized officers of the Pettis County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People do hereto set our hands this 30 day of September, 1952.

"Rev. B. C. Brock, President of the Pettis County Branch, NAACP.

"Mrs. D. F. Richards, Secretary of the Pettis County Branch, NAACP.

"F. D. Ferguson, Chairman of the Pettis County Branch, NAACP."

Like Him To Abe Lincoln

There were many telegrams likening Stevenson to Abraham Lincoln. Some contained promises of campaign contributions. A few came from persons who said they had intended to vote for the presidential nominee, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, but now will support the cause of the Illinois governor.

An aide who said he had leafed through about 500 of the messages said he found only four or five unfavorable ones — complaining about such things as "high phrases and no truth."

Stevenson himself asked to see the outpouring of messages, then made this one sentence statement: "I have tried to tell the truth about our world as I see it and I am grateful that so many people want to hear it and are eager to face it."

The Democratic presidential nominee asserted in a nationwide television and radio broadcast that when the Reds were stopped in Korea the action "was received with enthusiastic shouts of approval by the overwhelming majority of the American people, and even by the Republican leadership."

But now, he added, the Republicans "attempt to make you believe that it was almost an act of treason."

What If Reds Weren't Stopped?

"But what do you think they would be saying now if we had not stopped the enemy in Korea, if Japan was threatening and if East Asia was falling bit by bit to the enemy?" he asked. "Would they not now be saying that Harry Truman and Joseph Stalin were hoodlums in Outer Mongolia?"

He said that "the Republican leadership is now telling us that 'the danger to this nation is from within, not from without. The danger lies not in Moscow, but in Washington. Your enemy is not Joseph Stalin, but Harry Truman, or even possibly Adlai Stevenson.'"

This country, he declared, "must play the principal part in saving ourselves, our friends, and our civilization" from "this monster tyranny" of communism.

"How long can we keep on fighting in Korea, paying high taxes, helping others to help ourselves?" he asked.

"There is only one answer: We can keep it up as long as we have to, and we will."

He said his mail indicated the people are troubled most by these four questions:

"Korea, how serious is the Communist danger in this country, is our prosperity in danger, and how can we get the highest integrity and dignity in government?"

Taking up these issues, he said: "No approach to the problem of corruption in government is good enough if it ignores the deeper problem of corruption in men."

One In Hospital, Other Four Going There...

Five Children of One Family Here May All Be Polio Victims

One child of a Sedalia family is in Mercy Hospital at Kansas City as a suspected polio case, and four others are being taken to Mercy this afternoon for observation. The five children are those of Mrs. Della Smith, 925 East Third.

Carolyn Smith, 10, was rushed to the hospital Monday and preliminary tests indicated she was suffering from polio.

The mother was informed by doctors who examined Carolyn, after she told them her other four children were not well and described their ailments, that they also should be admitted to the hospital for observation.

The children at home are Glen, Edward, 8, Maureen, 6, Lovernia, 4, and Ora Lene, 17-months.

Dr. Glenn A. Walker examined the four children Tuesday morning, and likewise suggested they be taken to the Kansas City hospital immediately.

Willis Jabas, sanitary officer for Sedalia, upon learning of the situation, went to the home and had the city employees spray the house and the surroundings as a precautionary measure.

Open Bids On Work At SAFB

Eby and GWL Firms Apparently Are Low For Dormitories, Other Buildings

Martin Eby Construction Co., Wichita, Kan., and the G. W. L. Construction Co., North Little Rock, Ark., apparently are low bidders on construction of airmen dormitories at the Sedalia Air Force Base.

This announcement was made Tuesday morning by Capt. J. W. Kelly, executive officer to Col. L. J. Lincoln, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, at Kansas City, where the bids were opened. There were eight construction companies bidding on the project, the bids being opened and announced before a group of more than 75 persons, including the suppliers and others.

The engineers had sent out specifications on which the figuring could be done on four different plans. They were under masonry or concrete, or suggested materials furnished by the contractors, or frame buildings.

Consider Two-Type Construction

The Martin Eby Co., had low bid on the frame construction of 15 two-story wood-frame dormitories and the three mess hall-administration buildings. This bid was $2,110,527, while the Engineers' estimate was $2,509,699.58.

G. W. L. Construction Co., had the low bid on the concrete or masonry buildings, nine dormitories three-stories high, and the mess hall-administration buildings. This bid was $2,648,900 while the Engineers' estimate was $2,636,947.60.

The frame building dormitories, two-stories high, will be 37x215 while the three-story masonry buildings will be 37-220. The mess hall-administration building will be one story, 112x145.

Will Review Both Bids

The Corps of Engineers will review the bids, as will the U. S. Air Force, before the awarding will be officially announced. The Air Force will survey the two low bids, that of Martin Eby Construction Co., and the GWL Construction Co., to ascertain which of the two they will desire to have the contract.

This decision is expected to be completed within a week or ten days after which the successful contractor will be notified. The contracting firm which gets the contract will be given five days to start construction. It is anticipated the actual work will get underway anytime between Oct. 15 and Nov. 1.

The contractor will have 300 calendar days to complete the project.

Other Bidders

The other bidders on the project were McDonald Construction Co., St. Louis, $2,581,402 on the alternate masonry bid; Seth E. Geim and Associates, Springfield, Mo., $2,364,743, alternate frame and wood bid; Baumann Construction Co., Nevada, $3,311,208 on masonry and $2,924,582 on the frame and wood construction; Jensen and Ridge Construction Co., Wichita, Kas., $2,881,155 on masonry or concrete and $2,508,425 on frame and wood; Martin Eby Co., had an alternate bid of $2,040,670, on suggested materials, which is not expected to be considered; Edward H. Meyer Construction Co., Newenah, Wis., $2,653,790, masonry, and $2,316,293 on frame and wood; GWL Construction Co., a bid of $2,382,400 on frame and wood; Long Construction Co., Kansas City, $2,599,000 on masonry.

Other Bids Low

The U. S. Corps of Engineers at Kansas City announced the bids for the new runways, aprons and taxiways for the Sedalia Air Force Base, will be opened on Oct. 10.

It was said the costs of this project will be over $3,000,000 in accordance with which were presented on a previous construction of the project which were cancelled due to a change in specifications and plans.

"Scandal-a-Day"

Truman Regime Slaped by Ike

COLUMBIA, S. C. (P) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today ripped into President Truman's regime as a "scandal-a-day administration" that was too heavy a millstone for the Democratic presidential candidate, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Eisenhower, the GOP nominee, said Stevenson knew this and that the Illinois governor was attempting to shift the blame for the "Washington mess" to the people.

The general, making his third campaign tour to the South, was introduced on the state house steps by Democratic Gov. James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina. Byrnes had announced that he was supporting Eisenhower because Byrnes placed loyalty to country above party loyalty.

Ships Search for 80

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (P) — American and French ships searched the Atlantic Ocean east of the Azores today, looking for 80 persons missing from the Portuguese fishing vessel Joao Costa, which sank last week.

Development of the Communist issue could push into the background in Eisenhower's Columbia speech the touchy civil rights issue on which Byrnes left the national party by saying he would not support Stevenson.

After his one-shot invasion of Dixie at Columbia, Eisenhower planned to fly to Cleveland tonight to join his campaign train for some rest before he begins an arduous whistle-stopping foray with an early morning speech at Bay City, Mich.

Possibly in anticipation of this intensive campaigning, the general spent an hour and a half here last night talking with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Dewey, a native of Michigan, said they talked only about how to bring New York into the Republican column on Nov. 4.

But all of the politicians who professed to accept that at face value figuratively were standing on their heads at the time.

World's First Atomic Artillery Piece Unveiled by Army Today

ARMY DEMONSTRATES ATOMIC CANNON—A giant self-propelled cannon designed to deliver an atomic blast deep into enemy territory is demonstrated at the Aberdeen, Md., Proving Ground. The 85-ton weapon, the U.S. Army's largest completely mobile gun, fires a 12-inch shell 20 miles. The shell can be fitted with either an atomic or a conventional high-explosive warhead. Ike Will Make Campaign Issue Of Gen. Smith's View of Reds

Opinions Commies Have Infiltrated Security Agencies

NEW YORK (P) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will make a campaign issue out of Gen. Walter Bedell Smith's assumption that the Communists have penetrated every U. S. security agency.

The Republican presidential nominee will try to throw the Democrats on the defensive over the Communist question in his whistle-stop Midwestern tour which gets underway tomorrow.

Eisenhower flies from here to Columbia, S. C. today and will join his train at Cleveland tonight.

Smith, an old comrade of the general's, said in Washington yesterday that he assumes Communists have infiltrated even the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which he heads.

Testifying on a deposition in the two-million-dollar libel suit of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) against Sen. William Benton (D-Conn.), Smith said he believed the Communists were "so adroit and adept they have infiltrated every security agency of the government."

He said he had not found any in the CIA, and would have rooted them out if he had, but believes there are some operating, possibly even on his own staff.

Arthur Summerfield, Republican national chairman, said Smith's statement demonstrated that the "national safety has been endangered" by what he called "loose measures" in Washington security measures.

Eisenhower planned to develop this Republican reaction in his Columbia speech late today.

The Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, has needed Eisenhower subtly to make public a statement of his financial affairs—an accounting that James A. Hagerty, the general's press representative, said would be given "later on" in the campaign.

The Eisenhower camp, pushed into the defensive over the week end by Stevenson's action in baring his income tax returns for the last 10 years, greeted the Smith testimony as a major campaign break.

Eisenhower's advisers feel that the Democrats are particularly vulnerable on the Communist issue.

In an effort to appeal to the women's vote on this subject, the Republican National Committee arranged to have former Rep. Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut speak on it on a national radio-television broadcast tonight.

These developments gave Eisenhower a topical sendoff for an 8,000-mile campaign tour opening today at Columbia.

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina will introduce the general, Byrnes, a lifelong Democrat and holder of high offices at the hands of the party, has announced he will vote for Eisenhower.

Atomic Gun Can Move Up Fast to Fire

Rolls Across Field, Is Ready to Shoot In Only 20 Minutes

WASHINGTON (P) — The Army has unveiled a new 85-ton atomic gun and shown that it can roll nimbly across fields into position to fire super-explosive barrages within 20 minutes.

It is the world's first atomic artillery piece.

The gun, which the Army calls an "all-purpose weapon," was put through its paces at a special preview for photographers at the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds recently.

Ordnance experts have been trying out its mobility and firing capacity for months at these giant testing grounds, but standard ammunition was used rather than atomic rounds.

Can Fire Any Missile

The Army indicated that the weapon can use either atomic or standard rounds merely by changing the type of missile.

It did not say, however, whether atomic charges had been tested in the gun. The indication was that they had not.

The gun has a caliber of 280 millimeters — approximately 12 inches. This, in itself, discloses how compactly the atomic energy commission scientists now are able to build atomic missiles which at one time could barely be crowded into the bomb bay of a B-29.

There was talk at the demonstration of a 20-mile range for the gun. This approximates the range for coastal defense and naval guns of somewhat similar caliber.

May Have 20-Mile Range

Twenty miles would be a practical distance for placing the gun safely behind friendly lines, firing over those lines and laying down an atomic barrage on enemy infantry and armor without endangering friendly troops from the blasts, heat or radiation.

In the non-atomic demonstration at Aberdeen, conventional propellant charges of standard powder, in bags, were loaded behind an ordinary test projectile.

The rate of fire seemed to be approximately that of any of the large caliber, non-automatic guns used by the Army and Navy.

This is how the "all-purpose weapon" looks to visitors:

Take 40 Feet Long

Its tube is almost 40 feet long, designed to stabilize the missile by a spinning motion, just like a standard gun.

The elevation of its muzzle, or maximum range, appears also to be like that used in a standard gun.

A two-gun battery was used in the Aberdeen tests.

Nine other vehicles are used in support, including two power-generating trucks. The power unit is hooked to the gun by electrical cable, thus supplying electrical power for traversing and raising the elevation of the rifle.

Two engine cabs, looking much like the hauling end of the tractor trailer rigs you see on the highways, but with heavier construction, supply the power for moving the chassis through 500-horsepower engines.

Suspended Between 2 Cars

The gun and its mount are suspended between the two cars. In its movements, the gun handles almost exactly like a fire department's aerial ladder truck. The driver in the rear cab has a telephone headset connecting him with the forward cab driver who keeps the "tiller man" informed of his steering moves.

Essentially, the atomic gun is a vastly improved version of the familiar railway gun—but with the major advantage of not being pinned down to railroad lines.

Here are some of the things the Army claims for the gun:

Claims for the Gun

1. Since it is not governed by the conditions which control the dropping of tactical bombs by aircraft, the gun can fire atomic shells in any kind of weather and in daylight or the blackness of night.

2. Its aim compares favorably with conventional artillery at shorter distances and is "four times" more accurate at long ranges than any mobile artillery up to the start of World War II.

3. In addition to being able to travel over highways and cross-country, it can be transported in a landing ship for use in amphibious operations.

4. The overall length of the whole assembly — the two carriages and the mount — is 84 feet, 2 inches. But it can turn at right angles into any intersecting street or highway.

5. The barrel can be elevated to 55 degrees for maximum range and can make a full 360 degree turn for aiming in any direction. Even if the hydraulic power fails, the gun is so well balanced that one man, operating a hand wheel can raise or lower the barrel.

Boy Admits Recent Thefts After Capture

Charles Jack Bender, 16, of Fargo, N. D., was apprehended here about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday by state highway patrolmen, one of whom fired upon the boy when he tried to escape.

State Trooper Gregory had the youth in custody when the lad escaped. Gregory, in plain clothes, did not have his gun with him, but he took up the chase. In a few minutes he contacted Trooper W. S. Barton, who supplied Gregory with his riot gun.

Again taking up the chase, Gregory came up behind Bender and called to him to stop. When the youth started to run, Gregory fired one shot and a pellet of the shot grazed his right side. He was treated at the Bothwell Hospital and released to the troopers.

During questioning, which was continuing at press time, troopers said the boy admitted breaking into several homes in Sedalia the past few days and the theft of the car of Thurlow Puckett.

GOP Chairman Calls Truman Tour 'Degrading'

WASHINGTON (P) — Republican National Chairman Arthur E. Summerfield said today President Truman's whistle-stop tour is "a degrading and disgraceful spectacle that will make votes for Ike Eisenhower."

The GOP chairman called Truman "the hatchet man of the 1932 campaign" and said the President is a "peewee Ickes who has been degrading the office of President of the United States."

This was a reference to the late Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. Ickes was the author of many verbal whacks at the Republicans in previous national election campaigns.

Two Others Before Capture

EAST PROVIDENCE, R. I. (P) — A squat bank robber today killed one policeman and shot another and temporarily held two women as hostages in a commandeered home before surrendering to be-seizing police.

The gunman, described as not more than five feet tall, invaded the offices of the Industrial Trust Co. branch bank and screamed shrilly to a woman teller to put money into a paper bag.

She thrust loose bills into the bag and the man seized it and fled, emerging to run face to face into a bank guard summoned by an alarm.

The gunman leaped into his carelessly parked car, had difficulty getting away, and headed for nearby Pawtucket with police quickly taking up the chase.

He engaged in a running gun-fight with the officers, sending bullets into the pursuing cars.

Patrolman Charles Patenaude, 47, of Pawtucket was fatally wounded. Providence Patrolman James Cavanaugh, 41, was shot in the back, and Patrolman Joseph Donnelly, 38, also of Providence, suffered a broken ankle.

Abandoning his car, the robber fled into the home of Mrs. Robert Laprade and forced her to let Laprade and forced her to let opened fire, he fled back into the house.

Another woman, Mrs. Mary Sandring, was forced by the gunman to attempt negotiations with the police from a window.

A young couple who will be married next month were invited to a shower for a couple who had just been married and they went downtown to pick out a gift for the newlyweds.

They bought the gift and then they saw the kind of china they wanted and a few other things and became so interested in what they wanted themselves that they completely forgot about the gift they purchased, went out of the store and started to the shower. The girl suddenly remembered they had left the gift back in the store.

The woman who had waited on them, and who knew them pretty well, was surprised when they came back — she had been so much interested in showing them the china and other things in the store that she didn't even remember selling them the gift.

But, there the gift was, all wrapped up and waiting just to be picked up and taken to the shower. — H. L.

A Sedalia business man who is so much of a Democrat that he doesn't even want to go to a circus, because of the elephants, was in Chicago the other day when a strange man came up to him and out of a clear blue sky said to him: "I believe you're for Nixon."

"No, I'm not," said the Sedalian, "I'm for Taft."

The man kept talking and couldn't seem to figure the Sedalian out.

Finally the man said: "What business are you in, anyway?"

The Sedalian, who has more than one business shot back: "What is your business?"

The man pulled out his card — some big executive of a railroad. The Sedalian was not to be outdone — he pulled out some kind of a MKT card he had with him and said: "I'm with the Katy."

The stranger still believes the Sedalian was an executive or something of the Katy — which he isn't — he has no connection with the Katy — he had just a card the Katy puts out — and the stranger still doesn't know whether the man is a Democrat or Republican — he didn't find out a thing from the Sedalian. He probably thinks the man from Sedalia is a queer sort of fellow who will be disappointed when he doesn't find Taft's name on the ballot in November — H.L.

Eisenhower Tells Maryland Governor About Prejudice

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright 1932, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — General Eisenhower commented ruefully on how easily the public changes its mind and cracked a joke about southern prejudice and the Pope at his private luncheon with Maryland's governor Theodore McKeldin.

The two men and their wives were served behind the guarded doors of Eisenhower's private railroad car, which comes equipped with its own kitchen and a special chef to cater to the general's tastes.

As the campaign train clacked across Maryland, Ike got to musing about his Evangelical running mate, Senator Dick Nixon. The general remarked that public opinion on Nixon had reversed overnight, and drew a comparison with the late General George Patton. Ike recalled that Patton had been a national heel after he slapped a hospitalized GI, then overnight became a national hero as he drove spectacularly through Germany.

"And both of them had tears in their eyes when I met them," said Eisenhower.

This reminded McKeldin of a man who had been bitterly opposed to Patton until he learned that old "Blood and Guts" was a Virginian. After that the Virginian became a Patton rooster.

"That reminds me," said the general, still musing on an after-dinner apple, about a confused Virginian who had been listening to anti-Catholic propaganda against Al Smith during the 1928 campaign. "I'm going to vote against this fellow Smith," argued the Virginian, "to keep Mr. Pope from running the country."

"But," argued a Democratic politician, "Mr. Pope is married to a lady from Virginia."

"Oh, well, then, that's different," replied the southerner.

Note — Mamie Eisenhower had little to say during the luncheon, except to comment that they were both having a good time but were in bad need of rest.

Harmony Talk

The Eisenhower-Nixon talk was an extremely healthy thing from the point of view of Republican harmony, because signs of bad blood had been developing between the two top GOP running-mates.

Newspapermen covering Nixon's trip either ignored it or played the story down. However, Nixon's aides were boiling at Eisenhower for even entertaining the thought that he be dropped from the ticket. That was why Nixon deliberately ignored the general's telegram requesting him to see him "at once."

Instead, the potential next vice president of the United States flew not to the Eisenhower train but to Missoula, Mont. And when newspapermen queried the Nixon entourage in Los Angeles as to why he wasn't going to see Ike immediately, Nixon's press secretary James Bassett bluntly replied: "We are going to Montana."

Nixon's strategy was first to show that he was not a boy candidate to be pushed around; second, to let public sentiment build up in favor of keeping him on the ticket.

Furthermore, it was no accident that Nixon asked his listeners to send telegrams to the Republican national committee, not to the general. He knew its members, most of the professionally, would be much more sympathetic. Also Nixon's staff made all too clear to newspapermen around them that they bitterly resented the general's telegram from Cleveland that "my personal decision will be based on a personal conclusion."

Press Secretary Bassett has been one of the most zealous Nixon aides, and was one of those who virtually took the telephone away from his chief in Portland, Ore., to tell Senator Seaton of Nebraska aboard the Eisenhower train that Ike advisers should get some backbone. This was why Bassett brought into the picture when the two candidates finally met at Wheeling. Originally it was arranged for Eisenhower and Nixon to meet in the latest "clume" of the McClure hotel. Mrs. Eisenhower and her elderly mother, Mrs. Dowd, were down the hall in rooms 790-792, while the security guard was in room 780 next to the general. However, when the two candidates learned of the

JOHN MILLS moved his solid shoulders expressively. "You've got to wait for this kind of storm to blow itself out of wind, Governor."

"Then how about trains?" I asked.

"I don't like to take a train," Governor Warburton said. "Somebody might spot me on a long train trip."

"Governor," I said, "you'll get there all right. Don't worry about it."

"Sure," John Mills said. "We'll get you there, Willie."

He parked the car at the station and I went with him to inquire about trains. The bulletin board showed that nearly every train was marked late.

John Mills returned with a timetable. "I see there's a train at eight in the morning to Atlanta, and he can change there to a Birmingham train. Let's see, gets to Atlanta at 4 p. m., if it's on time." He moved his finger back along the column of type. "Yep, that's the best he can do. Then he can get a train out of there and, let's see—he can make Birmingham at 8:25. Roy, what time is the speech?"

"Eight o'clock," I said. "I'm sorry. 'We can't make it.'"

The Governor put his nose close to the glass looking at the storm. I switched on the radio and tuned in a news program. We heard a voice saying: "The Weather Bureau sees no immediate letup in the storm which is lashing the East Coast with full gale force from Hatteras south to Jacksonville."

"Willie," John Mills said, "I think what we all need is a little sleep. Maybe I'd better run you all back to my house and we'll wait out the storm."

The Governor shook his head. "I think I ought to stick close to the airport. John, and wait for a break."

"Maybe so," John said. "Well, suppose we see if we can stay at the hotel."

"No hotel," the Governor said. "Night clerks have sharp eyes."

John shrugged and rested his elbows on the steering wheel. "Then I reckon here we sit."

Lucy said softly, "On the way in, I noticed an auto court."

The Governor swung around. "Why, yes, John, don't you think we could make it in one of those without being recognized?"

"In this storm, I believe we could," John said.

"Let's see what we can do," "Okay," John started the car again, and back to the street. He knew where to go. On the highway just outside town, in a grove of trees, was a cluster of green and white cabins, linked by a circular dirt road. The office was part of a small general store facing on the highway. I got out in the rain and knocked, while John sounded the horn.

At last a light went on upstairs. An old man came to view, wearing a tattered bathrobe. He peered at me through the glass, then opened the door a little.

"Got any cabins?" I asked.

"How many?"

"Three men and a young lady. We'll need two cabins."

"Okay," I got two. That will come to $3 apiece.

I opened my wallet and brought out a $10 bill and a five. He took the bills and said, "Three bucks more."

"You said $3 apiece. That makes $12."

"Six beds," he said. "I charge by the beds. If you don't want the cabins, say so."

I paid him $3 more. He gave me two keys and said, "Nine and 10."

I hurried back to the car and told John the numbers of the cabins. The headlights picked up No. 9 first, and I got out and opened the door of a garage shed adjoining the cabin John drove in, and we entered the cabin first place—that after all these years it still looks fresh.

Frederick R. Goff, chief of the Rare Books Division of the library, says of the book:

"It achieved standards we've never surpassed, and rarely have equaled."

The explosion shortly after the takeoff blew a hole in the fuselage, injured two American tourists of the 20 persons aboard, and wrecked navigation instruments. The pilot made an emergency landing at a military airport.

Police said their investigation revealed that seven of the passengers had been hired for fictitious jobs in Oaxaca. Their tickets were bought for them and life insurance policies totaling two million pesos ($230,000) were taken out on them.

Yesterday Emilio Arellano Achetelge, 48-year-old businessman named by the seven as their employer, surrendered to police. He was the beneficiary of one of the policies, police said.

Judicial agents also arrested popular singer Paco Sierra, husband of the owner of a leading capital variety theater. Federal Atty. Gen. Francisco Gonzalez de la Vega announced that the remaining six policies had named friends of Sierra as beneficiaries. Two of these were arrested and the arrest of a third was reported imminent.

For nearly five centuries the Benedictine monks owned this book. They took such care of it—and it was so well made in the a campaign of open letters in support of his man.

Roosevelt made no speeches for Taft, however, saying that in his judgment "it would do harm, rather than good."

There have been only three prior occasions in the last half century, when it was possible for the outgoing president to help his party's nominee succeed him, and on two of those occasions little or no help was forthcoming.

In one of these cases, Woodrow Wilson was too ill in 1920 to do any campaigning for James M. Cox, who lost to Warren G. Harding.

In another, Calvin Coolidge remained virtually on the sidelines while Herbert Hoover campaigned successfully against Alfred E. Smith, in 1928.

The only approach to what is happening this year took place in 1908, when William Howard Taft was the candidate to succeed Theodore Roosevelt.

The Taft-Roosevelt teamwork against William Jennings Bryan, clear in the latest "clume" of the McClure hotel. Mrs. Eisenhower and her elderly mother, Mrs. Dowd, were down the hall in rooms 790-792, while the security guard was in room 780 next to the general. However, when the two candidates learned of the Governor Warburton produced a big grin, like a man without a care. "Fit for a Cabinet meeting," he said, and looked at the three iron beds, the washbasin with its rivulets of rust.

Lucy said, "Got a match, Roy?" I found a match and offered her a cigarette, but she shook her head and knelt by the gas stove. She struck the match and turned on the gas, and we watched the match burn slowly out. Lucy looked up unhappily at me and said, "No gas."

"He stuck us $18 for these two cabins," I said. "I'm going to see to it we get some heat."

I went out by the garage and splashed through the puddles to the office. I knocked hard, and at last the old man came groping down the stairs.

"We need heat," I said. "The gas doesn't turn on."

He rubbed his chin and said, "Sorry, we're out of gas. Feller was going to come out and fill my tank today, but he didn't show up."

I looked into his pale, crafty eyes, and shrugged. We could not go to a hotel, but not for the reason he thought. As I started out again, I noticed a wall telephone, and made a mental note of the number.

I WENT to the garage and tried the radio again. The report was the same: no indication of diminution of the gale.

Back in the cabin, I gave the news with a shake of my head and said, "Governor, I think we'd better send Bill Evers a telegram."

"Saying what, Roy?"

"Telling him to telephone us here," I said. "There's a telephone out front and I took the number. I'll wire him to call that number and ask for the man in cabin nine."

"That's cryptic enough to give poor Bill the blind staggers," the Governor said, and gave me a keen glance. "You don't think we're going to make the grade, do you, Roy?"

"I was just out in that storm, Governor," I said. "No, I don't."

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fires destroyed a big cattle barn and a grain elevator and damaged a paper firm's warehouse yesterday with losses totaling about $335,000.

Another fire in a home caused the death of an occupant, Andy Hanks, 83.

The barn was an elaborate, 180-foot long structure at the Hallmark farm on the south edge of the city. It was valued at more than $200,000.

Attendants rescued 40 prize bulls. They were owned by the American Breeders Service, an artificial insemination enterprise which had leased the barn.

The elevator was owned by Manley, Inc., a popcorn processing firm in North Kansas City. Loss there was estimated at nearly $100,000.

Another blaze caused an estimated $35,000 damage to a warehouse owned by the W. Evans Co., a paper jobbing firm.

William Pace Takes Bride In California

The Chapel of Roses in Alhambra, Calif., was the scene of the wedding of Miss Mary Jane Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Osborne of Alhambra, and William H. Pace, son of Mrs. Anamiae Pace of Alhambra, which took place August 24.

The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth McConnell, 112 East Tenth, has just returned from Alhambra where she went to attend the wedding.

The marriage ceremony was read by the Rev. Arthur Lee O'Dell.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white eyelet organdy styled with a full skirt and deep embroidered scalloped hem. A fitted bodice with short sleeves was complimented with embroidered armlets. She wore a head-dress of organdy which held in place her waist length veil of illusion net and her bridal bouquet was a white orchid surrounded with stephanotis and carnations.

Miss Frances M. Osborne, the bride's only attendant, wore a white organdy dress over yellow carnations.

Mr. Gerald H. Pace, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were Mr. Gilbert Johnson and Mr. Francis Bassler.

A reception was held in the chapel lounge immediately following the ceremony. The couple later left on a wedding trip to Monterey, San Francisco and Las Vegas.

The bride is a graduate of Alhambra High School and Pasadena City College.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Alhambra High School and completed his studies at Woodbury College. His mother is the former Miss Anne Mae Roof of this city.

Miss Eleanor Morse Becomes Bride Of Nelson Martens In Church Ceremony

In an impressive candlelight service Miss Eleanor Jean Morse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Morse, Henry, Ill., and Mr. Nelson Martens, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Martens, Stover, exchanged their vows in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Charles Bennett at 7 o'clock in the evening, Sunday, September 7, at the First Methodist Church in Henry.

Wedding selections were played on the organ by a former classmate of the bride, Miss Geraldine Dysart.

The bride wore a gray faille suit trimmed in velvet with black velvet accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of red roses.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Rita Mae Morse, attired in a violet suit with black accessories and a corsage of yellow asters.

Melvin Martens, Stover, served his brother as best man.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Law.

Immediate families of the bridal couple and the bride's grandparents attended the wedding and reception.

Following the reception the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip and are now at home at Stover, where Mrs. Martens is in business with his father at the Stover Motor Company.

On September 14 an open house was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Martens, with approximately 150 guests attending. They received many nice gifts.

Soros Hears Dr. Hektor Tell Of Mental Diseases and Their Causes

Statistics show that 580,000 boys of the four million called during World War II were rejected because of nervous condition and mental health, said Dr. Emmet F. Hektor superintendent of the State Hospital No. 4, Farmington, in his address before Sorosis Monday afternoon. And, Dr. Hektor added, 60 percent were later released because of nervous condition.

Dr. Hektor called upon the parents, teachers and people of the community as a whole to condition the children so they might meet the problems of later life with less emotional strain that too frequently puts them in an institution. He gave the amazing fact that more young people of college age were entering mental institutions every year than were entering universities and colleges.

Children need love, the speaker said, and when they are reared in homes where they are given little or no love, in homes where the feeling is not good between members of the family, it has an effect on the child's emotions. Poor, he said, must love and they must be loved in order to have normal lives. One of the hardest things on the human emotions is hate—it takes more energy to hate than to do anything else.

It is necessary to take inventory of ourselves. Such things as feeling, thinking and acting control our lives, said Dr. Hektor, and he pointed out that the earliest psychiatrists were poets and writers because, through their writing, they gave to people a philosophy of life. They gave, he said, a pattern of life to follow, the fact that love heals and hate hurts, the love of neighbors, the love of God.

These are the things that people must fill their minds with, Dr. Hektor said.

There is an ever changing pattern of life, he said, that calls for continual adjustments. It is the way you think, feel and act and a state of tension that bring on moods that you feel you can not carry on. They are greatly a part of inherited disposition and acquired traits through life, he said.

Childhood is the most impressive time of life, Dr. Hektor said, and children feel that the way their parents act is right. People, he said, should retain in their minds what will not hurt them, but thoughts never die, and some thoughts that remain in minds are injurious. Dr. Hektor likened the wrong thoughts to an unexploded shell buried in a farm land which, when hit at the right spot by a plow-share, will explode.

There are certain things that may cause a wrong thought to be awakened that will explode the emotions like the shell. If we neglect to take advantage of common sense rules, then the result will be injury, Dr. Hektor said. We may think that intellect directs our lives but it doesn't, it is our emotions, the speaker said, and if you are always tired for no good reason then look and see what is the matter. It is worry, fear, indecision, anxiety that makes people exhausted, not physical labor.

The day laborer is an example of that, Dr. Hektor pointed out—for those who do physical labor have less mental trouble than anyone else. The theory of the laboring man is to live and let live—they usually don't hate, they are willing to extend a helping hand, they treat their neighbors as they themselves want to be treated, they are glad when someone else has a measure of success just as they are glad when good things happen to them he said. It is the people who sit in the easy chairs who have the mental ailments, he said, for there is nothing as relaxing as good hard work.

Acting on knowledge that controls good mental health, Dr. Hektor said, you should never hesitate to be yourself—there is no personality that cannot be an asset. Life must have a goal, the speaker said, and if people are not given an opportunity to be individuals they acquire inferiority complexes. In the young they may become mentally ill or they may become delinquents. Delinquents as a rule, he said, start in gangs, there is the suggestion of a burglary or larceny—because there is no goal before them, no love, help, consideration, inspiration. If life has a meaning, of a boy or girl has an identity in his or her community, if there is appreciation and something to work for then the right emotions will be in control. It is the duty of every community to give their young people an opportunity for the right kind of life—it is the duty of the parents to see that their home is one of love; it is the duty of the teachers to look for the emotional problems in the children they teach, Dr. Hektor believes, because it is the influence of childhood that causes the mental emotions of later life.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. H. A. Hite, program chairman for the afternoon.

Mrs. A. J. Campbell, president, presided over the business meeting at which time Mrs. Herb Studer announced that the speaker next Monday would be Major A. M. Bobbitt, executive officer at the Sedalia Air Force Base, who will tell about the base. A luncheon in honor of Major and Mrs. Bobbitt will be served at 12:30 with reservations to be in by Friday afternoon.

Reds Seize Another Hill In Center Zone

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Chinese Reds seized another hill on Korea's Central Front today as the Communists maintained heavy pressure on the sector for the third straight day.

The hill, due east of Kumsong, was the third captured by the Reds since they launched a series of heavy attacks on the East-Central Front Sunday.

Yesterday the Communists powered their assaults with the heaviest Red artillery barrage of the war—47,312 rounds.

Savage fighting also flared on the Western Front. U. N. infantrymen slugged their way to the top of Big Nori but lost the high ground to counter-attacking Red Chinese in pre-dawn darkness. Greek troops were driven from the peak Sunday when U. N. planes accidentally bombed them during a Chinese attack.

The assault on Big Nori got under way at 1:30 a.m. today after a short but concentrated Allied artillery barrage. Thirty minutes later U. N. troops were at the crest, battling hand-to-hand with the Chinese.

The Reds withdrew. But 45 minutes later the Chinese re-grouped, mounted three separate counter-attacks and recaptured the crest.

Eight Red tanks lumbered into action in the fighting east of Kumsong. The Communists used about 200 men for the attack; then rushed in 200 reserves.

The South Koreans also beelined up their defending force but were finally forced back at noon today.

The rest of the Front was relatively quiet.

In Tokyo the Navy announced eight men were injured when Communist shore guns hit the American destroyer Cunningham off Korea's Northeast Coast Sept. 19. The Navy said three men were hospitalized.

School Savings Stamps, Albums Now at Postoffice

The Sedalia post office now has a plentiful supply of School Savings Stamps and albums ready for the school season. Postmaster Maurice Hogan announced today, "We have received shipments of both stamps and albums during the summer recess and are fully prepared to continue serving all of our schools," he added.

Hogan also stated: "There is every reason to anticipate a far heavier demand for Savings Stamps this year than at any time during the peacetime years. The School Savings campaign last fall, which proved such an outstanding success, created interest in the program on the part of teachers and students. The drive, which added 5,815 new school savings programs throughout the country, will be continued during the first semester of this school year. It is expected that nearly 5 million students will be in Stamp Day schools by the end of this calendar year.

"It is hard to visualize the great benefit this one program will have for our country with 5 million children saving nickles and dimes building the habit of thrift. School savings have been on the uptrend the past three years," he continued. "Stamp sales in the nation's schools increased from $10 million, 800 thousand in 1950 to $14 million in the 1951-52 school year."

Postmaster Hogan also announced that the new improved Series E Bonds are now available. In Describing the new bond he said: "It is now better than ever. Your return on this bond is 3 per cent, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. It also provides higher cash values in the earlier years. Proof of its popularity is evidenced by the fact that the cash value of E Bonds now outstanding has mounted to $34.9 billion, the highest ever attained."

Harry and Margaret Team Hottest Act on Road Today

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN—Maybe you approve of it, or maybe you don't. But this Harry and Margaret team, smiles and snappy patter, is the hottest father and daughter act in the road show business.

They've got it perfected now, with four years of rust scraped off, as President Truman's coast-to-coast tour goes into its third day. And the funny part is that Truman and his television star daughter seem to enjoy it as much as the customers do.

Here's what happens at a typical whistle-stop in North Dakota, say:

The 16-car train grinds to a stop. Secret Service men, local police, maybe some National Guard volunteers hold the crowds back—all but the local Democratic prominent, visiting Indian chiefs, or others who can expect a presidential handshake.

Formalities are quick. Lawyer so-and-so, who's running for Congress, introduced congress man a such-and-such, who's running for the Senate. And the congressman says simply: "Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States."

Then through a blue velvet curtain draped across the rear of his private car, steps—or bounces, rather—the familiar white-haired figure with the hearty laugh and the big axe to grind for Adlai Stevenson. The crowd applauds all ways.

Truman speaks from notes, mostly, though sometimes he disregards them and launches into a free-wheeling, hand-waving, jaw-thrusting tirade against the Republicans that brings cackles of appreciation from his hearers...And the time-tested cries:

"Give 'em hell, Harry."

He does, but not for long. These

Viscount Astor Dies After Long Illness

CLIVEDEN, England (AP)—Viscount Astor, prominent British publisher and sportsman and husband of Virginia-born Lady Nancy Astor, died today. He was 73.

Lord Astor, who was born in New York City, long had been a leader in British social and political life, along with his wife.

His death followed a long illness. Unable, because of his title, to hold a seat in the House of Commons, Lord Astor sponsored his wife's political career and helped her to become the first woman ever elected to the lower parliamentary chamber.

Bevan's Leftists Win New Power In Britain Today

MORECAMBE, England (AP)—Aneurin Bevan's left wingers won new power in British socialism today.

They gained two more seats on the Labor party's key National Executive Committee and ousted the party's No. 2 old guard leader, former Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, from the group.

Results announced today from secret balloting gave the Bevan forces six of the seven seats allotted on the 27-member Executive to local Labor party units. One-time Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton was the other Attlee man unseated in the test of strength between the Bevanites and the party's moderates.

The Attlee forces still counted on the backing of most of the rest of the committee, but the vote for the local, or constituency, seats was considered an accurate reflection of the feeling among socialism's rank and file members and a clear indication of the fiery Welshman's growing strength in his fight to wrest the party leadership from Attlee and Morrison.

Credits All-Bran With Constipation Relief!

"For many years I suffered from constipation. One year ago I started to eat ALL-BRAN regularly—my constipation is completely gone. I owe my regularity to ALL-BRAN." Dr. George H. Lubar, 23 Flint Road, South Toms River, N. J.

One of many unsolicited letters from ALL-BRAN users. If you want lasting relief from constipation due to lack of dietary bulk, try this popular method. Eat an ounce (about 1/2 cup) of crispy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of liquid. If not completely satisfied after 10 days, return empty box to Kellogg's, Battle Creek, Mich. DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

And Margaret comes out—as bouncy as her dad, with shucks—it's only-me smile and a wave that still manages to look a little shy. Now the applause really rings out. Margaret gets at least as big a hand as the President.

Noted Psychiatrist Speaks To Rotarians Monday Noon

Dr. Emmet P. Hector, nationally known psychiatrist, was the speaker at the Rotary Club Monday noon, taking for his subject, "Understanding Ourselves and Others." Dr. Hector, who is superintendent of State Hospital No. 4 at Farmington, stated that concentration on any one thing was the chief cause of mental illness and the cure is not as easy as a physical ailment because it is hard to keep the mind from continually going to that subject.

The meeting was presided over by W. E. Hurlbut Jr., president, with invocation by the Rev. Thomas W. Croxton.

Singing was led by the Rev. Warren Neal with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

N. U. Renshaw, program chairman, introduced the speaker. Governor A. McNailey will make his official visit to the club on Oct. 13.

Guests introduced by Emory Bowman were: R. L. Beaman, guest of Don Lamm; E. H. Jefferson, Springfield, guest of Del Heckart; the Rev. J. W. Watts, following the program refreshments were served.

Dodgers Taking Biggest Risk In Series' History by Starting Rookie Reliever Black

NEW YORK (AP)—The piteous wonders of Brooklyn have put it squarely up to their wonderful rookie reliever, Joe Black, to get them off on the right foot against the favored Yankees in the World Series opener tomorrow at Ebbets Field.

Never before in big league history has a champion of either circuit been forced to undertake such a desperate gamble. Other rookies have been called upon in the important first game, and there have been bullpen specialists before. But the combination of the two, out there trying to turn back the Bombers before the eyes of the nation, will be unprecedented.

Manager Chuck Dressen took a calculated risk when he nominated the 28-year-old Negro freshman to duel with the Yanks' mighty Allie Reynolds, as great a money pitcher as there is in the game today.

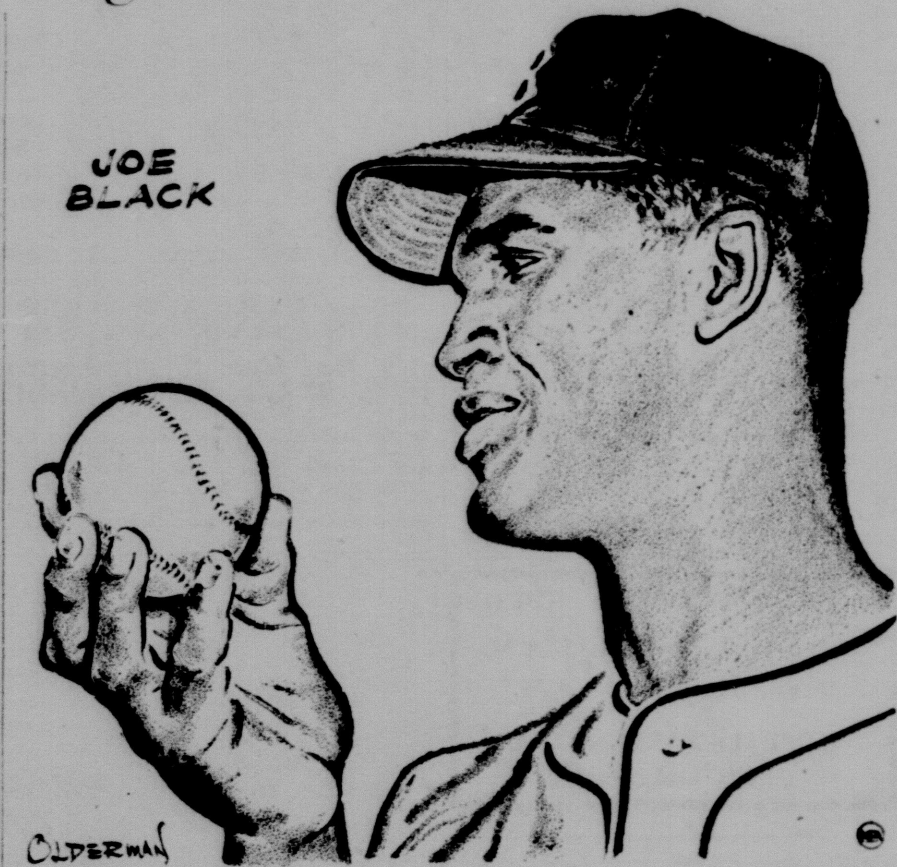

He could have held his relief ace back and been assured of late-inning insurance as long as the big playoff lasts. He chose to play it bold to stake his hopes of a world championship on one throw of the cube.

If Black, an unperturbed control specialist, pitches up to his brilliant form of the regular campaign, he will give Reynolds a mighty battle tomorrow. If he turns back the Yankees, the 9-to-5 odds in favor of the American League will take an abrupt dip and it could turn out to be a rip-roaring World Series.

Should the gamble fail and Black take a shellacking, the National League is in bad trouble, stripped temporarily of the relief pitching which held their shaky mound staff together all season. The rookie phenom appeared in 36 games, and with only 15 victories, his contributions easily equalled those of a 25-game winner. His earned-run average was the best in the league.

An angle which Dressen undoubtedly took into serious consideration in handing Black the blazing torch was the mental lift to be derived from winning the opener. Should the rookie win over Reynolds, the Yankees' best, other less endowed members of the Dodger staff might easily be inspired to pitch slightly above their usual weight in the ensuing games.

It was not surprise that Dressen named Carl Erskine, a 14-6 performer over the year, to face big Vic Raschi, 16-6, in Thursday's second game at Ebbets Field, nor that he nominated Preacher Roe, his veteran southpaw, to match portside shots with Ed Lopat in the third contest at Yankee Stadium.

Both teams were rested and in robust health. The only question was whether Gene Woodling, the Yanks' leading clubber, would be ready to start the opener and hit in the cleanup spot. He has had a pain in his groin lately, but said it felt much improved. If Gene decided to sit it out, Stengel will have to move catcher Yogi Berra up from fifth to fourth in his batting order.

Michigan State Still Solid Choice as Nation's Top Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Resourceful Michigan State was a solid choice as the No. 1 college football team in the country today in The Associated Press' first weekly poll.

Sports writers and broadcasters, who in a pre-season sampling of opinion named the Spartans as the best bet to win the national championship, apparently were further convinced by State's 27-13 comeback victory over Michigan last Saturday.

They gave the Spartans 52 of the 83 first place votes cast and an impressive total of 752 points, nearly twice that of the No. 2 team, Illinois.

Point totals are arrived at by awarding 10 for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

No other team got more than seven No. 1 votes, this number going to Maryland's Sugar Bowl champions, who gained third place on close-squeak triumphs over Missouri and Auburn.

California was named fourth, without a single first-place vote but with strong runner-up support, and Texas, winner over Louisiana State and North Carolina, was fifth with only five votes for top.

Completing the top 10, in order, were Georgia Tech, Southern California, Wisconsin, Kansas and Duke.

It is interesting that, in addition to Michigan State on top of the pile, five other teams picked in the pre-season poll pulled down places on the first weekly show of strength. These were Maryland, Georgia Tech, Illinois, Wisconsin and California.

Governor Proclaims Employ-Handicapped Week for October 5-11

Oct. 5 through Oct. 11, is National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week and there are 29 physically handicapped persons listed at the Missouri Division of Employment Security in Sedalia.

These people include the blind, deaf, amputees and others who are not physically able to do many kinds of work, but would make valuable employees in the type of work they are able to do. There are seven women and five veterans in the group listed at the local employment office.

An employee is usually proud when he hires a qualified handicapped worker because he feels that he is giving some deserving person a chance and in most cases he is more than repaid.

One reason why employers hesitate to hire the physically handicapped is the lack of public understanding, not sympathy, but understanding, that these people could perform the job as well as other qualified people. The physically handicapped don't want preference — they want only equal opportunity. National surveys have demonstrated that handicapped workers, when placed in jobs matching their physical capacities, are productive, adaptable, reliable, versatile and careful.

The Sedalia office of the Missouri Employment Service will join in observing the eighth annual National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week which begins next Sunday and continues through the following Saturday and hope Sedalia employers will help them. The week, established by Congress in 1945, initiates a year-round campaign to obtain employment for physically handicapped persons.

California Traffic Toll Makes Korea Seem Insignificant

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (P)—California's yearly traffic accident toll "makes the figures in Korea insignificant," Gov. Earl Warren said yesterday.

He noted at a meeting of State Department heads that the yearly deaths are running about 3,600 and the injuries at 100,000.

Inmate of Reform School 'Joins' Club And Goes to Freedom

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (P)—An inmate of the State Reformatory "joined" the Kiwanis Club yesterday just long enough to escape. Supt. Roy M. Frost said this is how it happened.

About 225 delegates to the State Kiwanis Convention were taken on a tour through the reformatory. Mack M. Stipp, 23, serving a term for forgery, swiped some civilian clothes from the laundry, donned them and walked out the gate with the Kiwanians.

Mary Jo Case has been chosen song leader for Smith-Cotton senior high school. Nancy Oswald will be the junior high school song leader.

Lincoln Students Visit

Four officers of the student council at the high school in Lincoln visited the Smith-Cotton senior student council meeting Monday afternoon.

The purpose of their visit was to learn about effective council management.

The officers were Willard Reine, president of the Lincoln council; Elroy Kroenke, the vice president; Pauline Christian, secretary and Donna Burton, treasurer. They were accompanied by Ray Nelson, sponsor of the Lincoln council.

Rent Controls Off For Just Two Hours

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (P)—Off went rent controls in this Eastern Pennsylvania city yesterday.

Back they came again just two hours later.

For months the City Council gathered data on the question of keeping rent controls. After many hearings and debates, the Council voted unanimously yesterday to lift them. This was done under a 1952 federal law which leaves the question to local governments.

About two hours later, Rep. Karl C. King (R-Pa.) was notified that federal authorities had classified the city as a critical defense area — and rent controls were to be restored.

Criminal Elements Cut Soviet's Oil Production

MOSCOW (P)—A top Communist official in Soviet Azerbaijan has reported the oil industry in his area failed to meet its production quota during the past eight months largely because criminal elements infiltrated into the big Southern Baku oil fields.

In a report to the Azerbaijan Party Congress, First Secretary M. D. Bagirov said the criminal elements had been cleaned out now and the oil fields would be able to catch up in time to meet the full year's quota.

LINCOLN—THE ONE FINE CAR DELIBERATELY DESIGNED FOR MODERN LIVING

More than one person has bought a new Lincoln
from this picture alone

People have actually walked into Lincoln showrooms, pointed to the Lincoln picture in an advertisement, and said, "I want that car."

We enjoy the tribute to Lincoln's prestige. And we certainly can understand a person buying the 1952 Lincoln on appearance alone. But we would rather you didn't.

For the Lincoln's beauty is not something you can see in an illustration. It's a living beauty... a beauty of comfort and motion in keeping with modern living. It's a beauty that you sense in the silent power of Lincoln's new overhead valve V-8 engine... in the effortless control you get from the dual range HYDRA-MATIC Transmission and the new ball-joint front wheel suspension (first on any American production car).

If you insist, we will, of course, part with a Lincoln before you drive it. But it is so different that it must be driven to be understood. When may we expect you for your demonstration? We'd like to show you soon.

Give today. Lincoln and Mercury Dealers will provide free transportation for Blood Donors. Call your Red Cross Chapter for appointment.

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice. White side-valve tires optional at extra cost.

Peter Edson Tells How Senator Nixon Gave Him the Fund Story

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — It often happens that, when a reporter is not able to trace down rumors to their source and effectually dispose of them one way or another, a direct inquiry to "headquarters" may bring out a reply, and the truth.

That is all that happened in connection with the story which Republican Vice-Presidential Candidate Richard Nixon authorized me to publish last week regarding a fund of some $17,000 which had been raised by a committee in Southern California, to help pay Nixon's political expenses.

As related by Nixon in his television and radio broadcast Tuesday night, I asked him about rumors of such a fund Sunday night, Sept. 14, after I had appeared with him on another television program. His answer, as the Senator reported to the entire country, was that "there was no secret about it." And, as he said over the air, he told me Dana Smith of Pasadena was administrator of the fund, and how to reach Smith.

On Monday, Sept. 15, I telephoned Smith in Pasadena from Washington. Nixon had said, as related in my story, that he did not personally know much about the details of the fund since Smith handled it, but that Smith would tell me. He did.

I first heard the rumor around the Conrad Hilton Hotel during the Republican National Convention. It was to the effect that a group of 100 Southern California businessmen had each contributed $200 to give Nixon a supplemental salary of $20,000 per year. My first inclination was to dismiss it as just another one of those things a reporter hears, but I asked a number of California correspondents about it. They said they had never heard of such a fund.

Among the newsmen I talked to about it was Jim Bassett, now Nixon's press secretary. He was then political editor of the Los Angeles Mirror. I had known him a long time. He had covered Nixon's campaigns and knew Southern California politics. But he said he had never heard the story.

Bassett had an idea the rumor might be a confused and warped version of the activities of the Southland Committee. This was a group of Republicans who raised money to support various political candidates during their campaigns.

Back in Washington, after the Democratic Convention, I found awaiting me a letter from a California editor which commended to my attention this young California Senator whom he knew well.

NIXON AND EDSON: He answered without hesitation.

I wrote for more information about Nixon and mentioned the rumor that had been prevalent in Chicago. A very full letter about Nixon's rise was received in reply. It told about a "fact-finding" committee which had scouted the district to find a candidate for Congress, and how they had finally picked young Dick Nixon.

"It was never 'a group of 100 businessmen' who would rule or ruin," the letter said.

I wrote to other California editors during August and got no more information. I asked other California newspaper men and other Californians about it. One of them called to my attention an organization known as "Republican Associates." But this turned out to be a group of California employers who were conducting a mail campaign among their employees in support of Republican political candidates. So this wasn't it.

All this time, Nixon was on the road, campaigning. There was no chance to put the question directly up to him. Then I noted that the Senator was to return to Washington after his New England trip and decided to make a point of seeing him personally. By this time I had become convinced there was nothing to it.

Meantime, I was asked to be on the panel of four reporters questioning Nixon on "Meet the Press."

I had no chance to question him before the program went on the air. And I couldn't very well ask him publicly if he was accepting a second salary when I had nothing that confirmed the rumor. So I had to wait until after the show to ask my questions.

I then told him that this rumor was still kicking around, and asked him what there was to it. "Is that the story you asked Jim Bassett about?" he asked me with a smile. I told him it was.

Without a moment's hesitation, he then told me that the rumor as I had it was all wrong. But there was a story there, and would be all right for me to use it. He didn't attempt to duck the question in any way.

He said, however, that he didn't have all the facts himself. There was a group of people in California who had helped him meet some of the extra expenses of running his office. The treasurer of the fund was Dana Smith of Pasadena. It would be perfectly all right for me to call him and get the details.

Nixon said he didn't know who any of the contributors were and he had made no effort to find out. They had never asked him for anything.

He never handled any of the money himself. He just sent the bills for agreed-upon expenses to California and they were paid by Smith.

The Senator did caution me on two points if a fair and objective story was to be written.

The first was that he had never put his wife on the payroll, although other senators had. He wasn't criticizing the other senators. But he didn't think it was right to do that himself. His second point was that the richer senators—like Herbert Lehman of New York—could afford to meet heavy office expenses out of their own pockets and think nothing of it. He, Nixon, couldn't do that.

I asked the Senator if he did not think it would be a good thing to get this story out in the open, so as to kill off the rumors that he was accepting a second salary for personal use? The Senator said he thought it would be a good idea.

Monday morning I reached Smith by long distance phone in Pasadena. I told him of my conversation with Nixon the night before. Again, without a moment's hesitation, Smith gave me the full story.

That was a wire service later said, an hour or so before three other reporters—Leo Katcher of the New York Post, Ernest Brahear of the Los Angeles Daily News and Richard Donovan of The Reporter Magazine—walked into Smith's office and were given the story.

Sparkman Slaps 'Catchy Slogans' Of GOP Campaign

NEW YORK, (AP)—Sen. John J. Sparkman says the Republicans are using catchy slogans designed to "stampede the American people away from their native common sense."

The Democratic vice presidential nominee says GOP talk of "creeping socialism" is an example of slogans he describes as "counterfeit rhetoric passing as legal tender."

Sparkman spoke last night at the Women's Business and Professional Club of New York as he started clients by mail. I sent the Nixon piece to New York, where it was processed and airmailed Tuesday, for release Thursday, Sept. 18.

his first campaign speaking tour of this area.

Sparkman said government moved into such fields as public housing, social security and rent control because "private enterprise has been asleep at the switch."

While the Alabama senator spoke inside the Commodore Hotel, about 45 Negro and white pickets paraded outside the building carrying several pro-Eisenhower signs. A spokesman said they were independents.

The theme of other signs was civil rights. One placard carried this question: "When does Alabama get equal rights?"

Sparkman declared: "No capitalist free enterprise system has ever been overtaken by socialism or any other 'ism' where that system was functioning efficiently and providing the majority of the people with the necessities of life in modern abundance. xxx."
